

Biography

Michelle Goodhand

Having purchased her first knitting machine in 1985 from the Spiegel catalog, Michelle began “collecting” and learning machines of various gauges, types and brands. Experienced with most machines, she enjoys hand manipulated single bed techniques that can be used on most machines.

Michelle has been actively teaching 2 - 4 mid-gauge machine knitting classes a month in the Detroit area since 2001 and writes techniques, stitch charts and patterns for classes. She currently offers classes at City Knits as well as private lessons while continuing her passion for creating new patterns based on current fashion trends in the knitting community.

Her latest machine knit pattern was converted to a handknit pattern and is featured in Tahki Yarns Spring 2017 Boardwalk Collection.
